Patch Description

My artwork for the Summer of Innovation was inspired by Haley's comet and the never ending space around us. Just like Haley's comet, which only appears every 75 years, the Summer of Innovation gave me a once in a lifetime opportunity to experience science in a way that only NASA could provide. The rocket flying into space depicts the never ending world and space around us. It represents the never ending need for learning and exploring what's out in the world and given the chance to learn, we can eventually reach the stars.
